

Searching for a Bible code can now be as simple as entering the required information and pressing a few buttons. Now, with the creation of the Oracle Bible Code, Researchers have long been trying to develop methods by which some of the biblical data could be made available. Basically, this is data that cannot be displayed in text format. To do this, researchers have used various methods in the past, such as using machine code, but this does not always give the expected results due to the inherent limitations of these methods. The problem today has been that Bible data may be available to non-Christian audiences.
