+-----+ | col_name | +-----+ | col_1 | | col_2 |
+-----+ and what i have to do is change the type of the col_name from VARCHAR(64) to INTEGER i know how to change in sql, i just can't seem to make it work in Zend Framework. i'm using this Zend_Db_Table::renameColumn() function and this is what i've tried

$table->renameColumn('col_name', 'col_1'); How can i make this work? Thanks! A: The following will work, but it won't be pretty. This isn't how you'd update the schema.

Typically you would run a script that would update your schema. // change the existing table

$table->changeColumn('col_name', 'col_1'); // record the schema change $table->schema->columns['col_name'] = array( 'type' => 'integer', 'unsigned' => true ); // rename the column name $table->renameColumn('col_name', 'col_1');

I haven't used Zend_Db_Table before, so this is pretty much the most I can do. Former U.S. Attorney Harry Jacobson has been tapped to represent President-elect Donald Trump's inaugural committee. "I am very proud to be a member of the President's team and I look forward to serving as the General Counsel of the Presidential Inaugural Committee," Jacobson said in a statement Wednesday. Jacobson, who represented Clinton for six years as she ran for President, was named Monday to lead the committee overseeing a celebration of the swearing-in of Trump on Jan. 20. Jacobson's selection was first reported by Politico. Jacobson served in the
